Product Description FINAL CHL 2024

DATES: LONDON 1ST JUNE 2024

The UEFA Champions League is the most prestigious official international football tournament at the club level in Europe. Organized by UEFA, it is contested annually since its establishment in the 1955-56 season, and its final is the most followed sporting event in the world, with an estimated audience between 350 and 400 million viewers, ahead of the NFL and NBA.

The winner of this competition plays the European Super Cup against the champion of the Europa League (the second continental competition), and as a representative of the confederation, the FIFA Club World Cup. The current champions, after beating Inter Milan, is Manchester City.

The Spanish Federation is the one that has achieved the most championships, with nineteen, followed by England with fifteen and Italy with twelve.

The final is the only match that is played in a single game and on a neutral field chosen by UEFA before the start of the competition.

The competition has had its own anthem since 1992, written in the three main languages of the competition, English, German and French. The chorus sounds before the start of each Champions League match. Also, television networks that broadcast Champions matches are obliged to broadcast a shortened version of it before and after the match.

The Final of the UEFA Champions League 2023 - 2024 will be the 69th final. It will be played at Wembley Stadium, in London (England), on June 1, 2024. This will be the third UEFA Champions League final to take place at the rebuilt Wembley Stadium, as it previously hosted in 2011 and 2013. Wembley Stadium was also the venue for Euro 2020, with eight matches played at the stadium, including the semi-finals and the final.
