CLIFFS - DONEGAL - GLENVEAGH - LETTERKENNY - GIANT'S CAUSEWAY - BELFAST

Located at the north-western point of Europe. A land of enigmatic lunar landscapes, myths and legends, labyrinthine caves, ancient stone castles, mysterious shores of rocky outcrops bathed by the mighty Atlantic Ocean, lakes and idyllic villages as varied as peaceful.

A place full of friendly faces, Celtic music, beer pints and whiskey glasses in the local pub ...

It is a fascinating country: footprints of druids, medieval monastic centers, Norman Conquest, English domination, potato plague, The English aristocracy and its struggle for independence are scattered all over the island. Come to discover that the proverb "in Ireland there are no strangers, but friends that I have not yet known" is true.

A place that you will never forget ... and as they say "Céad Mile Fáilte" which means "One hundred thousand times welcome."

Product Description

Day 1

] BARCELONA -DUBLÍN (Dinner)

Presentation at the Barcelona airport to start the flight to Dublin , one of the most vibrant cities in Europe, with a more and more evident cosmopolitan influence. The capital of Ireland is located on the banks of the Liffey River and houses more than a quarter of the total Irish population. Upon arrival, and after customs formalities, we will move to the city center. We will lunch and we will visit in the course of which we can see a large number of neoclassical buildings and Georgian roofs, the result of the prosperous period that the city lived during the 18th century. Such important names for the story as Oscar Wilde or the Duke of Wellington were born here. We will visit the most distinguished university in the country, Trinity College, founded in 1592 by Elisabet I on an ancient monastery. For centuries he ruled according to the Protestant canons, so that Catholics were only admitted if they were converted to this religion. We will have the opportunity to see the oldest Kells Book, one of the most beautiful illustrated books in the world. We will then head to the famous Guinness brewery , where we will know in detail the method of production and production of this famous beer, and from the impressive Bar Gravity , the tallest in Dublin, we will enjoy a panoramic view 360 degrees from the city. Dinner and lodging.
